

The Sustainability Award

General Conditions for Sustainability Award 2013

Sustainability Award addresses to the real estate, service or product that raises awareness on environmental issues or contributes significantly to sustainability to implement innovative strategies and solutions or to individuals and institutions that realize such projects, services or products.

The main objective of the Sustainability Award is to make the city and citizens benefit from the investments or services that aim at developing quality urban spaces by taking into account the responsibilities for the environment within the sustainability framework.

For this purpose, the steps contributing directly or indirectly to shaping urban development are expected to do so by considering the dimension of ‘sustainability’.

Nature of the Award

The award is given to the real estate, service or product that contributes significantly to sustainability or to individuals and institutions that realize such projects, services or products.

Conditions of Participation

The projects should be realized and documented to be eligible to participate in the award. Candidate real estate, service, product or individuals or institutions are chosen through application and nomination.

Evaluation Criteria

The consensus of the jury will determine the winner of Sustainability Award 2013.

The applications will be evaluated by a selection committee composed of 7 members from different backgrounds. The jury members are selected each award term.

If the jury deems necessary further information about the applicants or individuals and products nominated, the jury can visit the projects on-site during the period between two gatherings, regardless of the rapporteur. The jury will use a scoring system to decide the winners and the jury decision cannot be appealed.
